PEW TALK.

That tall young fellow's here to-day! I wonder what's his name? His eyes are fixed upon our pew-Do look at Sallie Dame.

Who's that young lady dressed in green? It can't be Mrs. Leach; There's Mrs. Jones with Deacon Giles— I wonder if he'll preach?

Lend me your fan, it is so warm ; We both will sit in prayers:
Mourning becomes the Widow Ames—
How Mary's bonnet flares!

Do look at Nancy Sleeper's vail, It's full a breadth too wide; wonder if Susannah Ayres Appears to-day as bride?

Lord! what a voice Jane Rich has got; Oh! how that organ roais; I'm glad we left the singer's seat, How hard Miss Johnson snores

What ugly shawls those are in front! Did you observe Ann Wild? Her new straw bonnet's trimm'd with black-I guess she's lost a child.

I'm half asleep; that Mr. Jones,
His sermons are so long;
This afternoon we'll stay at home,
And practice that new song.

We read in the Independence Belge: "The sudden rupture of the negotiations between the court at Rome and the Mexican embassey is attributed by one of our Paris correspondents to a very curious incident which is said to have deeply irritated the clerical party in Mexico first of all, and afterwards that of Rome. A case containing copies of the "Life of Jesus," by M. #### The Attorney General on Military Tribunals.

The Attorney General, in response to an nquiry of President Johnson, whether persons charged with the offense of having assassinated the late President should be tried by a military tribunal or a civil court, gave a written opinion sustaining the former mode of trial. This opinion has been printed. It maintains that the military tribunal exists ander and according to the Constitution in time of war, and that the law of nations constitutes a part of the law of the land, and the laws of war constitute a greater part of the laws of nations. The laws of war authorize human life to be taken without a legal process, or that legal process contemplated by those provisions in the Constitution that are relied upon to show that such judicial nations, which is the result of the experience and wisdom of ages, has decided that jay-hawkers, banditti, &c., are offenders against

Our Constitution has made those laws a part of the law of the land. Obedience to the Constitution and to the law then requires that the military should do their whole duty. They must not only meet and fight the enemies of their country in open battle, but they must kill or take the secret enemies of the country, and try and execute them according to law. The civil triounals of the country cannot rightfully interfere with the military in the performance of their high, arduous, and perilous, but lawful duties. The Attorney General characterizes Booth and his associates as secret, active, public enemies, and he concludes with the opinion that, persons who are charged with the assassination of the President, committed the deed as public enemies, as I believe they did, and whether they did or not, is a question to be decided by the tribunal before which they are tried. They not only can, but ought to be, tried before a military tri-If the persons charged have offended against the laws of war, it would be palpably wrong for the military to hand them over to the civil courts, as it would be wrong in a civil court to convict a man of murder who had, in time of war, killed another in battle.

APPLE CHAMPAIGN .- (A Valuable that blessid chapter. Recipe.)

We have recently learned of a very simple and cheap process of making Champaign Wine directly from apples; and as the coming fall will furnish an abundance of the necessary material the recipe may prove interesting to farmers and profitable to dealers.

The juice is pressed directly from sound apples without previous grinding because the bruising of the fruit, in a short time, discolors the juice, and produces such other chemical change, by exposure to the atmosphere, as to prevent the practical working of the process, while the juice pressed from sound apples is nearly as limpid as water. The juice runs directly from the press into a filter, consisting of a suitable box about a foot deep by six inches square, filled with a mixture of pulverized charcoal and clean sand or fine gravel, about half and half. A thin layer of straw is put into the box before it is filled with the filtering material and the bottom of the box is perforated with fine holes. The juice passes through this filter into bottles, which should be immediately corked to exclude the atmosphere which gives it the appearance of the real champaign; and sures us that the wine after remaining in the cellar a while presents the action and flavor of the imported article, with the advantage of being a much more healthy beverage, while its cost does not exceed two cents a orted champaign of the commonest quality cannot be brought in this market for less than two to three dollars a bottle, while its genuineness and purity are very questionable

o say the least. To crush and press apples at one operation equires a very powerful press. We have examined a portable arrangement of the kind, quite simple and cheap and well-adapted to this process as it is sufficiently powerhaving a pressing power of 10,000 pounds with 50 pounds weight applied to the crank. Such a press would be good to extract the juice from grapes, as it would not break the diptheria, and died—the same results wood seeds, and thereby give a bad flavor to the

A curious calculation has been made lately by a savant well known in Paris by his peculiar antipathy to the fly. He collected 3,000 flies in a room, and on the floor spread a pulverized loaf of sugar. At the end of four days he went to investigate the GW Kavanaugh, ap judge, opposition ..... result of his experiment. There remained a tablespoonful of sugar. This statistician, therefore, calculates that, sugar being at the rate of thirteen cents a pound, a fly costs the country twenty cents from its birth to its demise.

SOUTHERN CROPS .- It is most fortunate for the people of the South, says the Cincinnati Times, that the present year bids fair to be one of the most fruitful that has ever been known. The crops consist, for the most part, of the necessaries of life, to the exclusion of articles intended for the distant mar kets. With an abundance of corn and po tatoes, there will at any rate, be no suffering; the army horses which have been sold or given to the people can be recruited duing the winter; and in the spring, the high prices paid for cotton and tobacco will cause a general resumption of those profitable branches of agriculture. The Southern people should take it as a good omen that their first year of liberty proves to be one of abounding harvests, as if Providence intended to manifest his approbation of the establishment of universal equity, by the display of his beneficence. We sincerely rejoice that the period of greatest suffering has gone, and that in future we may look for more cheering accounts. No friend of humanity can fail to feel profoundly interested for the millions who inhabit the South, whatever may be thought of political lead-

The circumstances under which Barnum heard the news of the destruction of his Museum, and his manner of receiving it, remind us of a story of Sheridan. When Drury Lane was burned down, the wit, who was then its lessee was making a speech in the House of Commons. A friend whispered the news. but it did not seem to disturb him in the least. After he had concluded his speech. he walked leisurely down to the Albion Cof fee House, in Covent Garden, from the win dows of which he had a good view of the fire. As he was sipping his wine another great skill and large and successful practice .acquaintance dropped in, and seeing him, in inviting all who are despondent and have alexclaimed, "Good God, Sheridan; how can you take things so coolly?" "And why not, pray," replied the wit, "it would be a d-d hard case if a man couldn't enjoy a bottle of wine by his own fireside."

RATHER THIN .- It is said that an English manufacturing firm has succeeded, after quired to make an inch in thickness, being one-fourth as thick as tissue paper. The experiment was induced by a Pittsburg manulacturer, who wrote to England some time ago on a sheet of his own molding, of which it took 1,000 piled one on another to make an inch. The Pittsburger's skill has been largely overcome by his British rival and he must try again.
